Section A

- Read the following passage and answer questions (a) to (d). 11.67

The Amazon Rainforest has been a symbol of mystery and a power between people and nature and also cures waiting to be discovered. People, strangers to the Amazon natives, come along and take their land, the homes of animals and cures for the diseases. It causes extinction of many plants and animals. So we have to stop these people from all over the world from destroying home to people, cures, and animals. In the tribe of the Indians that live in the Rainforest, they have medicine men or shamans to take care of the people in the village. When a medicine man dies without passing on his knowledge to the next generation, the tribe and the world loose non-replaceable knowledge about medicinal plants that can be cured for diseases. The natives here have developed technologies and found resources that allowed them to live on the land by farming, hunting and gathering the items that they need to survive. In the 1500s, there were about six million to nine million.
